Words of Remembrance

Remembering my Love,

A child of God, husband, father, son, brother, grandchild, nephew, cousin, mentor, and a friend to so many. April 4 is supposed to be a special day for me to celebrate my birthday, but on this day I lost the love of my life.....though I am not selfish because now I get to share Jeremy's Heaven Birthday with my Earth Birthday. My husband has gone to be with our Father in Heaven, but as I look into my children's eyes he lives on through them, and for that I am eternally grateful. Jeremy had a heart of gold and would make anyone's day brighter, but he just couldn't seem to make his own day brighter. To know he is so happy with his Lord and Savior is an amazing feeling. Jeremy can live on through such sweet souls fighting to survive and live out their purpose on this Earth. He would have not wanted it any other way but to give all he has to give. God has a purpose for this, do we know now? No, and will not until God is ready to show us the plan. Do I want to wait and see what that plan is? No I want to see it today, but my God is so mighty that my Faith in him will give me the patience to wait. Jeremiah 29:11 for I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future. God is so good!

See you again my Love,

Jenny
